ACH CREDIT OPTION

To use the ACH Credit option, you must first contact your bank to determine if your bank offers ACH Origination. Have your bank complete the specific portion of the Authorization Agreement (Form EFT) as verification that your bank can conform to these standards. Also, complete Section A and Section C before returning the form to the Electronic Funds Transfer Program Office.

Supplemental filing information must be sent with your payment using the ACH standard CCD+ format and the TXP addenda record. The Cash Concentration or Disbursement (CCD) is the most basic form of ACH payment. The CCD format can be processed by all ACH-member banks. The TXP addenda record allows the format to carry additional characters of payment-related data. The TXP will be used for tax registration, tax type code and tax period end date.

You will initiate the credit transaction through your bank to the State's bank account for the amount of your tax payment.

An ACH origination charge from you bank will be incurred by you if you select the ACH Credit option.

Important characteristics of the ACH Credit transactions are:

- Credit transactions require you to enter all payment related data in the standard CCD+ TXP.
- The costs of the ACH Credit transactions are incurred by you.
- You are responsible for your own proof of payment.
